

In the photo I made which is a boat on the ocean during sunset, Recursion in this case is when we take one large square and we turn it into little squares one by one until we stop to get our photo. The art generator allowed for me to develop the photo and change the size of the rectangles which empowers me to use recursion to develop the photo.